This Week:

We continue to read stories family. Charlie Anderson is a story about a mysterious cat that disappears after breakfast. We read and found out that Charlie Anderson has two families and that is why he has two names. He is a lucky cat!

Small Groups included using our family scrapbook page to draw our families in our journal. If your child has not created a scrapbook page yet, it's not too late! Decorate a blank piece of paper with your child, adding stickers and family pictures. We would love to include all children and their scrapbook pages in our scrapbook!

We also engaged in a letter matching activity, matching the letters in our name. Students used squares to measure their shoes, learning about counting, comparing, and measuring.

Playdoh has been very popular during center time. This week we added letter and number stamps.

Next week we will be reading about food as a way to learn more about different kinds of cultures and families.

Looking for Donations:

Next week we are going to use fruits and vegetables, like apples, potatoes, and celery, to paint! If you would like to donate, send in one fruit or vegetable. Thank you!
